"Reading this book, it was a time for me to look back at myself and faith. The book talks greatly about God and who He is, and directs our view on the relationship with Him. When this comparison is done, we seem to always fall short of what God wants us to do. This is not negative or discouraging in any way, but rather hopeful. Now that I know what I must do and what God wants, this can be helpful to my spiritual life. I am grateful for this book and the study sessions we had together. The sharing and encouragement we have for another truly embodies what the church and body of Christ is."
